

Molyneux Outlines Housing Program for Kingston, Says Our Opportunities Neglected

Edelmuth's 'Dusty Answer' Could Bring Theme Song

Small, Dusty Stones Are Swept Up, Trucked Away; Wurts Street Hill Soaked

Mayor Edelmuth's "dusty answer" to a new surface for Wurts street from McEntee street to the Rondout creek bridge today got a good wetting down.

This morning all the loose, unwashed, fine stone topping, which has been laid over tar apparently applied too late in the season, was removed by city sweepers and city trucks. Then the city's sprinklers were put to work to soak the street from curb to curb.

Theme Song Suggested
One resident was asked about the possibility of a new theme song, "Along the Edelmuth Trail." He replied he didn't care what happened that way, the street was covered with dust and nobody on Wurts street had any use for it.

Residents of the street and those living nearby on cross streets, wondering why the new surface came this late in the season, and only a few days before Election Day, are not mollified by the most recent work on "The Edelmuth Trail."

Need "Scrubbing Bath"
Front walks, lawns, porches, houses, Cornell Park, and even the Seventh Ward blue stone home roll tablet need a good "scrubbing bath" to remove the dust whipped around by the heavy flow of traffic over the thoroughfare.

Traces of "The Edelmuth Trail," as dry as the famed Navajo Trail in the Arizona desert, have been found at the junction of McEntee street and Broadway almost to Stuyvesant street.

Lord Gort Resigns
London, Nov. 2 (AP)—Field Marshal Lord Gort resigned today as high commissioner of Palestine as the British government laid the blame for terrorism on Jewish elements. Colonial Secretary George Hall described the most widespread and highly organized sabotage in the history of the country as a "series of outrages" resulting from "very careful planning by a very considerable organization among Jewish communities."

Strike Vote Halts Wires
Detroit, Nov. 2 (AP)—A five-hour stoppage of Western Union Telegraph Company service in the Detroit area was scheduled to begin at 11 a. m. (E.S.T.) today while 1,100 union members take a strike vote. The work stoppage, voted 135 to 60 at a meeting last night of Local 11, Commercial Telegraphers Union (A.F.L.), was authorized despite an appeal from national officers of the union that the action be withheld.

Scully Arrested

Can't Have House
Peggy Ann Garner Loses Move to Purchase $10,000 Dwelling
Los Angeles, Nov. 2 (AP)—Peggy Ann Garner, 32-year-old film actress, thought she had her housing problem solved and then a stern-faced judge put her foot down and said she couldn't have the $10,000 house her heart was set on.

Judge Henry M. Wallis approved her bid for a contract calling for a starting salary of $1,000 a week but on the request for permission to buy a 30-room home in suburban Brentwood he frowned and said:

"It is like getting a $40 saddle on a $20 horse. I figure that all that money should go into this child's income and not into this purchase of a $40,000 piece of real estate that is non-producing."

Republican Candidate for Mayor Points Up State Law Which Enables Private Capital to Give Better Community Conditions

Abram F. Molyneux, Republican candidate for mayor, who advocated a housing program without cost to local taxpayers early in the campaign, last night in the Second Ward delivered the full punch of his plan and answered what his Democratic opponent "termed Molyneux's '47 days of silence'" since his first announcement of the program in September.

"The two greatest needs in Kingston today are more homes and more jobs for our workers," Molyneux said. "Industrial expansion and more housing go hand in hand. Kingston cannot develop industrially, if workers have no place in Kingston in which to live."

Kingston, Molyneux said, needs homes. Many persons cannot find them and a definite housing program possible under state authority would replace sub-standard dwellings with better living conditions for families of low income.

In addition, he said, "a housing project will bring benefits to every one concerned. Our property owners, our mortgage lenders, our contractors, our building materials industry, our skilled mechanics and our laborers who must do the job."

In 1938, he said, Kingstonians voted 4,891 for the housing article under the State Constitution; only 2,271 persons voted against the proposition. The vote in favor was more than two to one.

Has Neglected Opportunity
In the meantime, he pointed out, while many other cities were creating housing authorities without cost to the taxpayers, Kingston has not taken advantage of the plan but has stood still.

Thus better living conditions for many have not been created, he said. Molyneux cited a message of Governor Thomas E. Dewey in telling how such projects could be financed by private capital, supplemented by state aid.

Two Methods Are Available
"Either of two methods, or a combination of both, is available," Molyneux said, "for the solution of Kingston's housing problem."

The first method is known as the redevelopment method, by which, under a law passed by the State Legislature in 1943, three or more persons, or banks, savings and loan associations and insurance companies may organize corporations to erect houses and commercial structures in sub-standard areas by agreement with the city. These projects, he emphasized, are built, owned and operated wholly by private capital. No cost to the city is involved. The city is protected on assessments in the project area for 25 years. Assessments would be lower than they were before the housing development was opened.

The second method, known as the public housing method, operates by the creation of a public corporation, known as a local housing authority. This authority is created by a special act of legislature. From three to five members serve without compensation and are appointed by the mayor. Necessary surveys, with the assistance of the State Division of Housing and the land is prepared for the construction. Bonds are issued by the corporation to furnish the money needed to build the project and for all other expenses. These bonds are sold to banks, insurance companies, savings and loan associations and private investors. The cost of operation, and the maturing bonds and interest, are paid from the rents received from the tenants. The State gives an annual subsidy to help defray the cost of maintenance and operation, to insure low rents.

Favors Private Capital
"Neither plan," Molyneux said, "involves any cost to our local taxpayers. However, being a firm believer in the system of free enterprise, under which our country became great and powerful, I naturally favor the plan which utilizes private capital in the solution of our housing problem."

"State aid," Molyneux continued, "comes from the State Treasury. The State Treasury gets its cash from the taxpayers. Many of the State's taxpayers live right here in Kingston. Therefore, some of the money being spent by the State for housing in other cities is Kingston money, paid in the form of State taxes by Kingston people. Since we are helping to pay for the State's housing program, we are entitled to receive its benefits."

Text of Housing Address
The text of Republican Candidate Molyneux's speech follows:
Fellow citizens:

When this campaign opened, I proposed a housing program for Kingston. Tonight, I want to discuss that program in detail. As you know, we are in the midst of a critical housing shortage in Kingston. Many families cannot find a place in which to live at any price and many families of low income are living in sub-standard houses in various sections of our city.

Army-Navy Battle Over Mergings

Navy League Declares Move Is Proposal to Grab Power at Expense Navy, Public
Truman Yields

President Gives Ground on Returning Service to States

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—The capitol rocked today with two famous rivalries:

Army vs. Navy.
White House vs. Congress.

A whole month before the Army-Navy football game, the two services were battling before the Senate Military Committee in a contest more bitter than most people had realized.

The question is whether to combine the War and Navy Departments into a single department of national defense.

Navy supporters are fighting the proposal as though defending their goal line.

The Navy League, an organization of pro-navy civilians, issued a statement calling the proposal "a grab for power at the expense of the public and the navy."

Two admirals, Chester Nimitz and William Halsey, have reversed their previous stand and are against the merger.

A year ago, both Nimitz and Halsey testified favorably to setting up a department of national defense. This testimony, along with that of General Douglas MacArthur and other war chiefs, was given before a special committee of generals and admirals, and was made public yesterday by the Senate Military Committee.

MacArthur urged that all armed forces be jumped into one strong force wearing the same uniform. He said even the army-navy football games ought to be abolished because they "have caused feelings so intense that they color a man's whole life."

Meantime the Senate Committee called General George C. Kenney of the Army Air Forces to testify today.

As for President Truman and Congress:

There were several developments in that situation.

Yields Some Ground
The Truman administration was reported to be yielding a little ground on the question of returning the U. S. Employment Service to the control of the states.

Congress is obviously intent on returning it soon. The President on September 6 asked that it be kept in federal hands until at least July 1, 1947. Yesterday, Secretary of Labor Schwelbensch said he had suggested to the Senate Appropriations Committee—apparently with Mr. Truman's knowledge—that the date be July 1, 1946.

On yet another issue, connected with a further grant of $500,000 to U. N. R. R. A., the administration lost out yesterday in the House—and now looks to the Senate to reverse the decision.

The House, in voting to appropriate this relief money ruled that it must not go to countries which refuse to allow American exports to be sent around freely in getting news about U. N. R. R. A. activities.

Both the administration and U. N. R. R. A. itself opposed this provision on the ground that it might hamper the international relief program. They hope the Senate will strike it from the appropriation bill.

The Senate faces a hot and heavy debate today over how much authority to give President Truman in streamlining federal agencies. About 20 amendments to a government reorganization bill have poured in from Senators who want to increase or decrease Mr. Truman's authority.

Also in Congress today:
A Senate group called the last of a long and meaty series of hearings on the proposed

Vigilance Against Resurgent, War-Dreaming Japs Is Needed, General Thorpe Says in Tokyo

President Desires 20 Per Cent Civil Service Pay Boost

Arthur Flemming Informs Senate Committee
Truman Favors Increase

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—A senate committee was advised today that President Truman wants the pay of Federal Civil Service workers raised a straight 20 per cent.

He also wants the pay of congressmen boosted to $20,000 a year and the salaries of cabinet members to $25,000. Congressmen now receive $10,000 and cabinet members $15,000.

Arthur S. Flemming, of the Civil Service Commission, told the Civil Service committee that he was "authorized to state" that such increases would be "in conformity with the program of the President."

Flemming said the President's program also included:

An increase in the salary ceiling for professional, scientific and administrative jobs under Civil Service from $9,800 to $15,000.

Salaries for heads of executive departments (cabinet members) at the rate of $25,000, for under secretaries and solicitors general $20,000; assistant secretaries and assistant attorney generals $17,500, and heads of independent agencies and boards, $17,500 or $20,000 as determined by the President.

Salaries of $25,000 for the vice president and the speaker of the house and $20,000 for members of congress. Mr. Truman previously had recommended the increase for congressmen.

Increases in the judiciary to $30,000 for the chief justice of the United States, $30,000 for associate justices of the Supreme Court of Appeals and the Court of Customs and the Court of Claims, $20,000 for the chief justice of the District of Columbia U. S. District Court and $20,000 for judges of all District Courts.

This would represent generally a $10,000 a year increase all down the line in federal judicial posts.

The vice president and the speaker of the house now receive $15,000.

President Is Busy With New Conferences

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—President Truman today plunged into new conferences seeking the solution to labor strife and took the problem also to his cabinet.

Fresh batches of industry spokesmen and labor leaders conferred with the President on the national labor-management peace conference starting Monday.

As he left the White House, James Tamm, vice president of the Texas Company and a conference delegate, told reporters that "collective bargaining doesn't get anywhere in carrying out a contract after it is laid."

R. J. Thomas, president of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers, said he would enter the conference with an "open mind" but observed:

"I'm hopeful something can be worked out, although I wouldn't go so far as to say something will be worked out at the labor-management conference."

Strike Might Expand
New York, Nov. 2 (AP)—National-wide extension of the strike of Greyhound Bus Lines drivers and maintenance men, which has halted service on six of the firm's branches in the east, was predicted today by a union official if a settlement between the men and the lines was not reached soon.

Funeral Rites for Father Hughes at St. Mary's Church

Divine Office Sunday Evening at 8 o'clock
Requiem Mass on Monday at 11

The Rev. J. Warren Hughes, 59, pastor of St. Ann's Church at Sawkill for the past nine years, died in the Benedictine Hospital Thursday evening of a heart attack. He had been ill since last Friday.

Father Hughes was assigned to the Sawkill church from Poughkeepsie, and during the nine years he served the church many improvements were made to the church property, and the membership of the congregation largely increased.

He was born in Mt. Vernon in 1886, and was ordained at St. Joseph's Seminary at Dunwoodie. He served several parishes following his ordination, and later was assigned as assistant pastor at St. Peter's Church in Poughkeepsie, and subsequently he served with Monsignor Stephen C. Connelly, who is now pastor of St. Joseph's Church of this city.

The body of the priest will repose in the chapel of St. Mary's Church, this city, all day Saturday and until after the 11 o'clock Mass Sunday morning, when it will be taken into the main church. Here it will lie in state until after the divine office Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

The high Mass of requiem will be offered in St. Mary's Church on Monday morning at 11 o'clock, with burial in St. Peter's cemetery in Poughkeepsie.

Father Hughes is survived by a sister, Mrs. C. S. Fee of Mt. Vernon.

Europe Will Get Help
Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Liberated Europe will receive greatly increased quantities of dairy products from this country in the last three months of 1945, the Agriculture Department announced today.

France, including French North Africa, Belgium, the Netherlands and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration have been allocated more than 450,000,000 tons of dairy products for the quarter.

This is about four times more than this country has made available in any previous quarter.

That Need Surpasses Rounding Up War Criminals, in His Opinion

Today Important
Day by Day Actions, Not Post, Are Vital to Allies, He Says

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (AP)—Vigilance against resurgent Japanese who still dream of conquest and revenge while outwardly appearing complacent, an Allied headquarters authority declared today, is more important at present than the rounding up of war criminals.

Brig. Gen. Elliott R. Thorpe said, however, the attitude is limited to a few individuals with small followings. Other Allied sources said there was potential danger that this type of thinking would increase when large numbers of demobilized troops are repatriated from China and other regions where they felt no physical defeat.

Thorpe added his department did not consider it likely that thousands of able-bodied Japanese ex-service men, and more particularly the former members of the disbanded rabid and rough gendarmes, could abandon overnight their carefully indoctrinated fanaticism and belief in Japan's ruling destiny.

"We are more interested," he said, "in what's going on day by day in Japan, and less interested in what was done in the past by men who have already been arrested by the Japanese police and have no chance of escape."

Simultaneously, Allied headquarters disclosed that three Japanese Army officers under arrest are being questioned about the execution of three Doolittle airmen on October 25, 1942, at Kiangwan, near Shanghai.

A major Hata is in protective custody of the Japanese government at a military hospital in Tokyo. The government has guaranteed his delivery to Omori prison camp.

The others are Lt. Yusei Wamitsu, listed in the 1940 Tokyo city directory as the only son of Yonefusa Wamitsu, president of the Greater Eastern Asia Independence Society and former vice president of the Tokyo Bar Association, and Lt. Gen. Shigeru Sawada, former deputy chief of staff, who commanded the Shanghai area when the Doolittle fliers were executed. Both are at Omori.

Latest arrival at Omori was Genki Abe, former Japanese home minister who played a major part in formation of Nippon's disbanded "thought police." The former Suzuki cabinet member who headed the metropolitan police board surrendered at the prison today. The Allied command last Tuesday directed the Japanese government to hand him over for trial on war criminal charges.

Criticism of Congress Is Not Necessarily Harmful, House Leaders Declare

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—House leaders declared today that President Truman's criticism of Congress this week did not harm his legislative program, and may help it.

This view was expressed by Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts and party whip Ramspeck of Georgia when asked about the President's reference to "damaging delay" by House committees in handling of jobless pay and "full employment" bills.

The two gave a reporter slightly varying interpretations of what they expect, but their opinions summarized were:

Members of the committees involved resented the criticism, but for the present no minds were changed, one way or the other.

The appeal for action may stir up public support for the bills and switch some votes.

McCormack and Ramspeck both said they believed the House expenditure committee will approve "some type of acceptable full employment legislation" before the first of the year.

The committee has been considering a Senate-passed bill on the subject for nearly six weeks.

The two leaders had varying opinions however about prospects of the unemployment compensation measure before the Ways and Means Committee.

McCormack said he is still hopeful for favorable action soon. He said he believed House Republicans on the committee will see the light. Ten Democrats voted for consideration of the legislation recently, with ten Republicans and four Democrats opposed.

Ramspeck declared he doubted the committee would change its position unless members became convinced through messages from voters that the public wants it to do so.

"The entire effect of Mr. Truman's remarks about Congress will be the reaction it provokes among the people," Ramspeck said.

"Very few Congressmen are ever influenced one way or the other by such a request. It's what the people want that influences them."

The jobs pay bill which Mr. Truman has requested would provide unemployment benefits up to a maximum of $25 weekly for 26 weeks.

The "full employment" measure would enunciate a government policy of supplementing private industry, when necessary, with enough works projects to assure job opportunities for all Americans able and willing to work.

Voting Hours Election Day
Tuesday, Election Day, the polling places in Kingston will open at 8 o'clock in the morning, and remain open until 7 o'clock that night, according to the office of the Ulster County Election Board.

Democrats Urge Four of Six Amendments Be Defeated

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 2 (AP)—Defeat of four of the six proposed constitutional amendments to come before New York's electorate Tuesday is urged by the Democratic State Committee.

In a letter to party workers yesterday, State Democratic Chairman Paul E. Fitzpatrick asked for rejection of these amendments:

No. 1, which would require voters to vote for governor and lieutenant governor on a single ballot.

No. 2, which would permit separate election of a lieutenant governor if that office became vacant.

No. 3, which would permit a voter who moved from a non-personal registration district within 30 days of an election to vote in the district from which he had moved.

Mr. Sholin, who will deliver the convention address, has had a wide experience both as the son of missionary parents and as a missionary himself.

As a child he traveled through many of the eastern countries. Later his parents settled in Spain. There Mr. Sholin learned much about the Spanish people, and is today able to understand their many problems.

The Sholin family had to leave Spain during the Spanish revolution. Since then Mr. Sholin has continued his education in this country. He has spent some time working with Spanish speaking peoples in New Mexico and Arizona.

He also spent a year working for the New York City Mission among the Spanish peoples. There he was able to help them in a better understanding of America. For the past two years he has worked with the Mexicans brought in by the Pennsylvania railroad. His chief work has been in teaching them English and practical Christianity.

Pigs Stage Strike

Eighty-six pigs on a hunger strike are proving too much for H. H. Deeks, farmer at Settlers, South Africa, and he is at his wit's end. Although apparently healthy, the pigs refuse all food, even such specials as dry or soaked maize, crushed maize and maize-meal. On advice of the government's veterinary department, Deeks has added treacle and patented feeds, but to no avail. When allowed to run, however, the pigs forage and appear to eat.

Supervisor O'Neil Talks on Race For Coroner Here

The following speech was delivered by Supervisor Francis O'Neil of the Thirteenth Ward in the Town of Olive:

There is developing in this localized election considerable interest in the race for an Ulster county coroner in which two Kingston men are engaged, Ernest Kelly being named by the Republican party and Raymond Schuler by the Democratic party. The American Labor party has no endorsement for this office at this election, that probably being due to the fact that the election was ordered after the A.L.P. designation vote in the office being added by a special order of Governor Dewey to the ballot.

Usually the post of coroner causes little comment in the political field but the nomination of Mr. Schuler has changed this. For the past eight years Mr. Schuler has been active in the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, playing a long hand of times in a battle for more direct representation of the people in that body. He has brought many suggestions for changes in the handling of the matters which come before the board, and many of these were requested of him by Republicans in the county as Schuler piled his county-wide routes through all of Ulster. He became a prominent figure and thus his poll of votes is causing much speculation. The man is widely liked and generally admired for his willingness to be of public service regardless of political aspects to matters which he handles.

While Schuler's insistence of more personal and less political responsibility on the part of supervisors has been new to the Ulster County Board it is not new on a national basis. There has been a general tendency toward more vigilant service and groups of minority members and groups and this has been evident in Congress and in the state legislature. There has been favorable response from the voters toward those men who have taken upon themselves this renewed practice of the American, or Republican form of government, regardless of whether the minority was Democratic or Republican. Thus it is that the nomination of Raymond Schuler, who is well known throughout the county, carries an interest that is unusual in an off-year election.

Speculation runs high as to how he will run but there seems to be in this area at least a very strong approval of his attitude toward representation of the public, and there is admiration for the man who has taken the brunt of political attacks. His nomination has another unusual feature in that he was not named until the ballots had been made up, which was when Governor Dewey's order came through for a special election for the coroner post. Thus Schuler's vote will be a true reflection of his popularity, unaided by any campaign efforts, this meaning that the votes will come without benefit of campaign speeches or campaign cards or posters, or a house-to-house canvass.

A measure beneficial to all Ulster County and New York State automobile drivers was Schuler's measure to reimburse a car owner whose machine struck a deer on the highway. By persistent effort over a period of over two years Raymond Schuler obtained passage of this measure which has been acclaimed by everyone in the County of Ulster and the entire state of New York.

Leaves From Notebook Of War Correspondent

By HAL BOYLE

Tokyo, Nov. 1 (AP)—I am being haunted by a grownup alabrine pill with black hair.

He is a Japanese hotel room boy named Tetuo Umeko. He is 18 years old and about three inches taller than the hub of a jeep.

One week ago the hotel management assigned him to clean my room, and now I can't scrape him out of my life. He has left the room momentarily and that has given me this chance to slip the word of my plight to the outside world. Help! Help!

It is all my own fault. It began seven days ago when there came a knock on the door and Tetuo poked his head in. He was singing an old Japanese folk song and sounded like a porcupine with ingrown quills. He was laden with mops, brooms, rags, brushes and a pail of water.

"Hello," I said tentatively. Tetuo bowed and answered pleasantly, "where is the toilet?" He didn't know what toilet meant, some American had taught him that the phrase was a polite good-morning greeting.

"Precise, may I clean room?" he asked—and without waiting for a reply began swarming all over the place. By the time I had leaped out of bed and into my pants he had mopped the bathroom. By the time I had buttoned my shirt he had washed the window. I grabbed my shoes and escaped into the hall by wading through inch-deep water as he swabbed the floor.

He had done such a good job that when I got back from breakfast I gave him a candy bar. That was my big mistake. Tetuo immediately adopted me, engulfed me with Japanese terms of praise, and at once set out to become my honorable valet, my honorable slave, my honorable mother and father, my patron and my business counselor.

For seven days now I have been trying unsuccessfully to break out of this human corral, this amber ocean of devotion. He is worse than seven times seven devoted wives.

The first thing I see in the morning and the last thing I see at night is that eerie grin.

He is punctilious about his duties. Once I sneaked into bed before he could complete his nightly chore of turning down the sheet and he gave me a frustrated look as though I had stabbed him in the back.

Tetuo won't let me lie abed in the morning now—"must clean room, must clean room"—yet I can't leave until he finishes polishing my shoes. Otherwise he looks so sad that I get that creepy, guilty feeling. I have to fight him off to keep him from lying my necktie, and he absolutely refuses to let me indulge in my favorite nasty habit—wearing the same shirt two days in a row.

When I start off to work, Tetuo runs to the elevator and holds his finger steadily on the buzzer until the cage stops for me—but I'm the guy who gets the annoyed look from the elevator operator. As the door closes on me, Tetuo grins and says formally: "Precise take good care of yourself."

Once Tetuo and one of his buddies asked me if I had received any Japanese presents. I hadn't. They asked what I would like, and I replied offhand, "Oh, about five pretty Geisha girls." Then, terrified, I saw a fanatical gleam come into Tetuo's eyes. I could see he was plotting to get them. Wildly I bribed him with candy bars to forget the whole thing—lest I come home some night to find girls fluttering around the place like butterflies.

One morning I decided that I would stay in bed late and read and let the scenery world go to. Four times I hurried Tetuo and his mops and brooms out into the hall. Then he decided I was sick and delirious.

In five minutes up he came again with breakfast on a tray. I ate it, finished my book and started to get up. Tetuo wouldn't let me. I was sick, he had decided. Three times I fought off his attempts to feed me pills.

Now I'm too tired to struggle any more. I will lie here forever. Oh, Lord, here he is again, and what do you suppose he is bringing me? Fresh yellow flowers in an empty medicine bottle.

A STATEMENT BY RAYMOND J. SCHULER

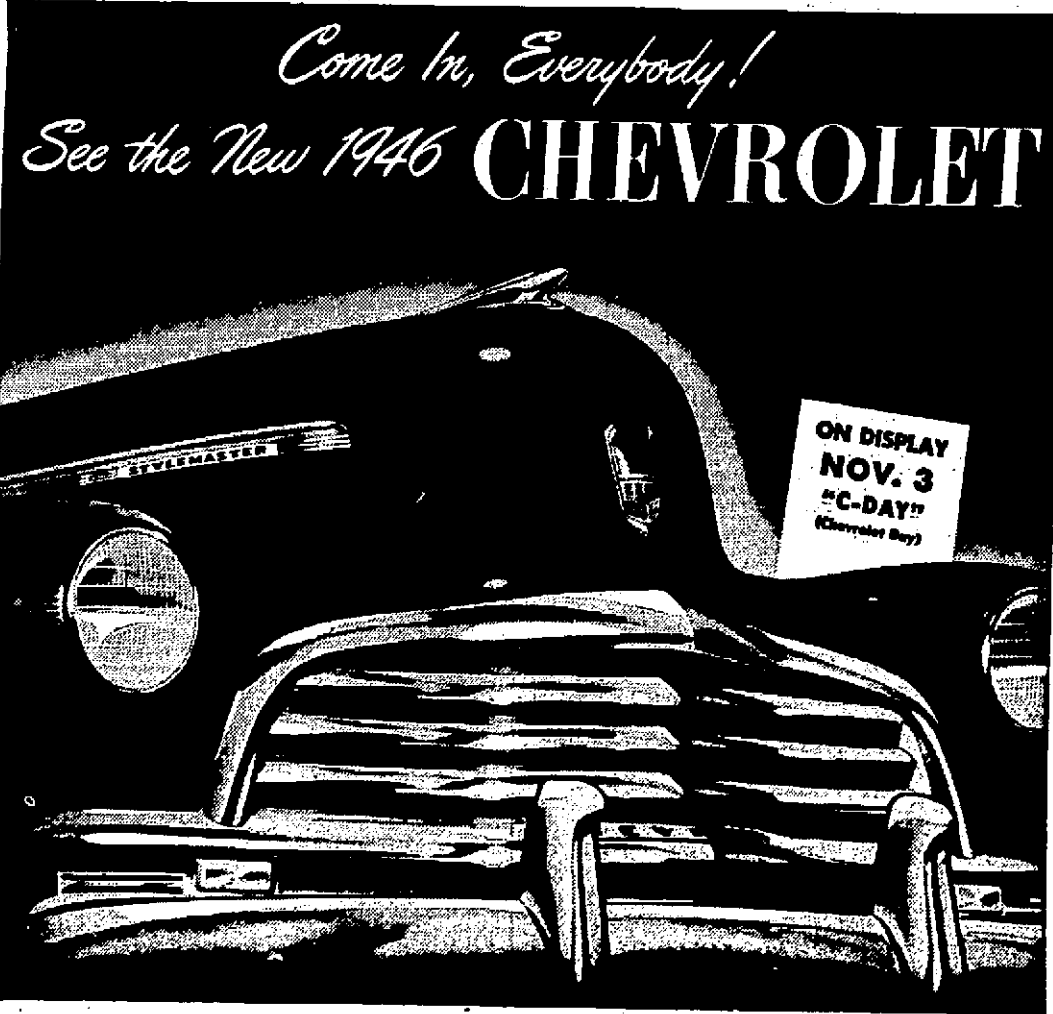

In an advertisement which appeared in the Nov. 1st issue of the Daily Freeman it was stated, at my request, that I had refused to sign the report of the Committee on Sheriff's Accounts of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors in 1941.

Knowing that the sheriff's claims had steadily mounted from year to year since he first took office in 1936, I refused to sign the report in 1938 and again refused to sign in 1941 until all the bills were submitted to me.

In the interests of harmony in the Board of Supervisors, I finally did sign the 1941 report, although I thought then and still think the amounts were exorbitant. This thought of mine is still further borne out by the fact that one of that same sheriff's bills to the city of Kingston was characterized by the last opposition mayor as "highway robbery."

I make this statement in the interests of truth and accuracy.

Scouts to Collect Waste Paper Here

At the time the city salvage committee was abolished recently, Raymond Rignall, Kingston city salvage chairman, turned the job over to the Boy Scouts of Kingston.

The first drive of the fall will begin Saturday, November 10, at which time collection will be made in Wards 2 and 3 by Troops 3, 1, 8. Residents are requested to again place their paper in bundles and have them at the curb no later than 8:30 o'clock in the morning because there will be no call-backs for paper. The city trucks will not be available for this drive, but the dealers who purchase this material will furnish their own trucks which will be staffed by Boy Scouts.

VETERAN WANTS CAR

General Smuts, in Cape Town, has received the following letter from David, a native transport driver in the South African Army who has his own postwar plan: "With pleasure I ask you, Sir, as you are my father, I ask you to do me favor of getting me a car. So will you decide yourself which you would prefer between these two, 'Packard' and 'Buick'. I want a strong car, Sir. I am not saying anything, Sir. So I will come to see it when I come back home."

MAORIS WANT FARMS

So many ex-servicemen among the Maoris in New Zealand want to start stock raising that the government believes it may have to provide land for over 6,000 natives. At Hastings doubt was expressed as to whether that number could be settled on farms running dairy stock or sheep and some may be persuaded to go in for specialized farming, such as fruit-growing or tobacco culture.

Officers Re-Elected by Kingston W.C.T.U.
Studies Education as Answer to Alcoholism

At the meeting of Kingston W.C.T.U. held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Steketee, the following slate of officers were re-elected for the coming year: Mrs. George Shults, president; Mrs. Ella Fain, vice president; Mrs. William Whitson, treasurer; Mrs. O. B. Smith, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. John Steketee, recording secretary.

Mrs. George Shults named the directors of departments as follows: Mrs. Marie A. Gurthier, Sunday school; Mrs. Minnie Dunnagan, spiritual life; Mrs. John Steketee, press; Mrs. A. J. Keefe, peace; Mrs. George B. Mead, literature.

The program thought centered around "Education, the Answer to Alcoholism," as advanced by John L. C. Goffin, M. D., supervisor of health education, Los Angeles, Calif. city schools.

He regards alcoholism a grave social and health problem of significant proportions. He says "the statistics are staggering. Two million four hundred thousand inebriates in the United States and of this number 600,000 are chronic alcoholics according to figures by Benson Y. Landis, lecturer in the department of applied physiology, Yale University."

In the review made by Mrs. Lena Chichester Kelsey and Mrs. John Steketee further facts about education and alcoholism were noted. "Fifty-four dollars per capita, worse than wasted last year for liquor," was one of the statements emphasized and the report continued that not enough people consider this problem serious enough to insist on education doing its duty. Schools and colleges must teach young people the facts revealed by medical research.

As a result of education they believe probably that a generation thoroughly conversant with the facts about alcoholism would demand that this habit forming narcotic be restricted to its legitimate purposes. The report further stated, "an informed citizenry is not easily hoodwinked by specious propaganda. Only the innocent and misinformed are willing to tolerate a public menace."

First Dutch C. E. Announces Annual Drama Presentation

"The Tinker," a three-act play by Fred Eastman will be presented by the Senior Christian Endeavor Society of the First Dutch Reformed Church Thursday and Friday, November 8 and 9 at 7:45 o'clock in the Chapel. This is the eighth drama to be presented in a long line of plays which have been given annually by the C. E. and have included such successes as "The Blue Boy," "Go Slow, Mary," "Little Women," and "Hans Brinker."

The effort through the years has been to produce plays of high calibre, and the one this year is no exception. The author, Fred Eastman is professor of Dramatics at Chicago University Seminary.

In "The Tinker" he has written a play that will produce upon modern audiences the effect created by "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" and "The Servant in the House." It centers around the life of an American family ambitious for a new house and a new car and new clothes—but limited by a small salary. Into that home comes a genial and lovable tinker who has a different set of values. Between his way of life and the family's there arises a great conflict. The Christian Century says of it: "... a very religious drama, although there is little mention of religion in it. There is much clever dialogue, and the action moves briskly to a satisfying climax."

Fred Eastman himself says, "Although it is a modern comedy, its inception grew out of a study of the life of St. Francis of Assisi. That study led not only to reading a number of biographies concerning him, but to go to Italy and spend several days at Assisi going over the places where his spiritual struggles took place. I was not concerned in writing a historical play about St. Francis, but rather to capture the eternal verities and the spirit of that noble life and to put them in a modern setting."

The entire action of the play takes place in the living room of the Whitneys, a family in southern New England, the day before Christmas. The cast is as follows: David Whitney—John Terwilliger; Jack Whitney, his son—Rodney Wells; Ethel Whitney, his wife—Nancy Davis; Marjorie Whitney, his daughter—Joan Haynes; Jeremy Whitney, his brother—Donald Leisland; Jane Seymour—Shirley Freer; Tinker—Henry Millington; Prompters—Rita Larsen, Ann Page.

Stage Managers—William Carr, Doug Meyers, Kenneth Christian, Charles Lahl.

Property Manager—Walter Davis.

Refreshments—Mrs. Clarence Freer.

World Fellowship Month Is Being Observed By 'Y'

The month of November is always celebrated as World Fellowship month by Y. W. C. A. all over the world. The local branch of the "Y" is making plans to celebrate this event through special features and regular club meetings.

The Business and Professional Girls Club is planning a program next week to be entitled "Music Around the World." The speaker will be Miss Marie Oliver, who is music secretary in the program subject department of the Y. W. C. A. National Board. For this meeting the local club is inviting the Poughkeepsie and Newburgh Business and Professional Girls' Club.

There is a great need for material aid for Y organizations in Europe and the Far East and the National Board in this country is interested in collecting clothing and any articles which might be of service abroad in the devastated countries. As a further expression of the World Fellowship theme in this connection, the local Y and P. club is asking its members to bring to the meeting next week any articles of clothing which are still serviceable. The clothing must not be new but it must be clean since there is little soap available in the countries abroad. These articles may include such items as shoes, worn but still usable, underwear, towels, bedding, soap, toilet articles, such as powder, lipstick, hair cream, writing paper, etc. In a great many of the "Y" in these war-torn countries even members of the staff have only such clothing as is sent through relief agencies. Some members cannot attend meetings because they lack shoes. The local Y and P. club feels that this plan is a very practical method of helping its sister associations and expressing the World Fellowship idea in such personal terms as has not been possible before.

At the regular meeting on Wednesday evening, the club heard conference reports from the Regional Conference held two weeks ago in Albany. The Misses Alberta Davis, Rose Helen Melter, Victoria Maroon, Elsie Magee, Teresa Lloyd, Sylvia Relyea and Elma Smith spoke on various highlights of the session. Following the reports the social committee, with Sally Gallagher as leader, conducted a Halloween party.

Members who are planning to attend the supper meeting next week are asked to sign up at the "Y" not later than Monday noon.

In addition Mr. Menahem was Victory Lodge's guest in New York for one week and heard his work performed by Leonard Bernstein and members of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Society at the First Annual George Gershwin Concert. Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Some Spooks
Klamath Falls, Ore., Nov. 2 (AP)—Two small girls, out to see what they could scare up in the way of Halloween treat, got what is probably the best "treat or trick" any prankster could claim.

They called at the home of a woman who evidently didn't understand that "treat" meant just a piece of candy or small treat. She gave them two thick steaks to take home and cook.

Success at Last
Denver, Nov. 2 (AP)—For months Irving Linder, building agent, had tried without luck to sell a large heating radiator. Now he's rid of it.

He reported to police that someone stole it.

Wrong Number
Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 2 (AP)—Mayor Clyde Tingley is positive now that Albuquerque has a housing shortage.

A prankster inserted a "for rent" ad in the paper, giving the mayor's address. Inquiries had reached 31 by the time the mayor hurried away to his office.

City Life
Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 2 (AP)—The urban trend is spreading—even to coyotes and bobcats, which seem to have developed a liking for the brighter lights of Santa Fe.

Mass Production
Norman, Okla., Nov. 2 (AP)—The daily mimeographed newspaper of the naval personnel separation center here carries this cheerful slogan under the masthead: "Supplying civilians to Oklahoma, Kansas and North Texas."

That's a Big Help
San Francisco, Nov. 2 (AP)—The War Shipping Administration is making it easy for veterans returning on W.S.A. ships to bring pets home with them. Monkeys, honey bears and birds of the parrot family aren't admissible, but—

An animal loving G.I. can bring home to his bedside the inevitable dog, or: A giraffe, camel, ox, antelope, horse, deer, goat, or sheep—provided, of course, that he wants one.

There's one restriction that may not hurt much. The veteran can bring only one giraffe, or ox, or camel, etc.

RAIL EQUIPMENT LOST
Czechoslovakia lost about one-half of her 4,100 locomotives and two-thirds of her 93,875 freight cars to the Nazis during the war and is busy trying to put the remainder in repair. With adequate supplies of iron ore, she is expected to be able to manufacture her own locomotives and cars in the future, according to Prague reports.

VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Health Hint for House Ferns

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

THIS is the time of year to give your house ferns a health inspection. In examining them watch carefully for evidence of insect pests such as the mealy bug, thrip and red spider.

The red spider is so small it cannot be seen easily with the naked eye, but its presence is revealed by small brown spots on the underside of the fern fronds, and by the leaves turning somewhat yellow, and in some cases falling from the stems.

To get rid of this troublesome mite use the "water cure," that is, down the red spiders by washing the underside of the foliage every day with cold water.

An easy and effective method of giving the "water cure" to ferns or any other house plant is illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Hold each plant sideways or upside down under the bathroom shower.

This treatment will prevent the appearance of red spiders, or rid the plant of the pests if it has already been attacked by them.

When examining house ferns do not fall into the error of mistaking the brown tiny spots on the back of the fronds for red spiders or any other insect pest. These are not bugs, as is often suspected, but the spores or seeds of the fern, as illustrated.

The World Today

By J. M. ROBERTS

A.P. Foreign Affairs Analyst

Americans awoke today to another day of disturbing news, just as they have for many days past. Strikes, and any number of troubles great and small!

But the news they might have had today was not to come. Instead of awaiting word of perhaps 200,000 American boys who might have been facing a murderous, suicidal Japanese defense of Kyushu island, thousands were waiting on both east and west coasts for veterans' homeward bound.

Today would have been a crucial day on Kyushu but for the series of fortuitous circumstances which knocked out Japan less than three months ago.

Under the schedule fixed before Hirohito hollered quits, MacArthur and Nimitz would have struck against the Japanese homeland night before last. Presumably they would have been ashore today with most of 10 divisions. They would have been the 25th, 33rd, 40th, 41st, 43rd, 1st Cavalry, the American, and the 2nd, 3rd and 5th Marines. Coming in behind them would have been the 77th, 81st and 77th after a feint toward the inland sea around the strait between Shikoku and Honshu.

MacArthur planned to secure Kyushu for the winter, consolidate, and strike about March 1 directly at Tokyo across the plains east of the city. The assault and immediate follow-through there would have involved 25 additional divisions, and no telling how many more in the following land campaign.

Unofficial reports from the general's headquarters before the end of the war said preparations would be made for an 18-month campaign in Japan. And the effect of the subjugation of the homeland on Japanese armies in China and Manchuria was still a matter of speculation. It was hoped that the beheading of the empire would wither its parts. Russia was expected to see that it did, but none could be sure. The British were loading their boats to evacuate the Japanese in Malaya and the southwest "co-prosperity sphere" when the surrender came. The Japanese have made it plain what they intended to do. They would have met us with suicide boats, with a kamikaze for which planes and pilots were being saved and with every man who could stand in defense of his homeland.

The news is not always heartening now. But no hobnobbing, facedown bodies of American boys did the surf of southern Kyushu, either, and it is almost Thanksgiving.

Molyneux Gives Housing Program

well-being of every one of its citizens.

When homes are comfortable, pleasant and nice, and are properly planned and situated in pleasant neighborhoods, we are building for better citizenship. And better citizenship builds a better, happier Kingston.

Inadequate housing results in many unfortunate consequences. Sub-standard houses depress their own land values and the land values of adjoining areas; they, for that reason, impair the security of mortgages; they lower the tax income which the city collects; they encourage people to move to suburban areas; they spoil the appearance of the community; and they harm the health and well-being of the people.

Our problem, then, is to provide homes for those who cannot find them and to replace sub-standard dwellings with better living accommodations for families of low income. If we do that, we shall restore depreciated property values and the security of mortgages; we shall bring back to Kingston the taxes it has been losing; we shall improve the appearance of our city.

and make Kingston a finer, healthier, happier place in which to live. In other words, we shall protect the investment of the individual and the community as a whole in terms of both human and property values.

Benefits For All Concerned

Furthermore, a housing project will bring benefits to every one concerned; our property owners, our mortgage lenders, our contractors, our building materials industry, and last, but not least, the families who will rejoice in new and better homes.

"The state of New York has enacted certain laws under which Kingston can and should move ahead in solving this problem. The housing policy of the state, to which I fully subscribe, was well expressed by Governor Dewey in a recent address, when he said:

"A most pertinent example of looking ahead is the program of the State Division of Housing. Your state calls on you and your community to plan now for homes and neighborhoods that will mean better living for all who have fought at home and abroad to win this battle for freedom."

The governor continued, and again quote:

"This huge task will be done soundly and effectively only if there is the greatest degree of cooperation between the state government, local housing authorities and private enterprise." The governor then told how these projects could be financed by private capital, supplemented by state aid. Let me give you his exact words, and again I quote:

"We can set new and higher living standards for the people of this state through the building of housing developments by private enterprise supplemented by state-aided projects for families of low income. To do the job well, we must enlist the full energies of both private and public endeavor."

In harmony with this Constitution, this policy of financing municipal housing programs by means of private capital and state aid, as declared by Governor Dewey, is in harmony with a new housing article of the State Constitution which was submitted to the vote of all the people of the state and adopted by them in 1938. I have checked the record of the vote of the people of the city of Kingston on this new housing article of the constitution. I find that the people of Kingston voted overwhelmingly in favor of it, the vote being 4891 for and 2271 against it. Thus, by a vote of more than two to one, the people of Kingston indicated that they favored a program of municipal housing.

Now, how can this be done? Kingston's housing problem is not unique. Similar conditions have existed in many of the cities of this state. But while many other cities moved ahead to plan and build for better living conditions for their people, Kingston has stood still.

In line with the State Housing Policy as approved by the people of the state, including the voters of Kingston, housing authorities have been created in the cities of Buffalo, Schenectady, New Rochelle, Tonawanda, Elmira, Niagara Falls, Mt. Vernon, North Tonawanda and Yonkers; and in the villages of Freeport, Hemp-county chief executives to petition the Legislature for passage of local laws.

Fitzpatrick centered his criticism on proposed Amendments 1 and 2.

He asserted the first amendment would "deprive the electorate of the exercise of independent judgment" and that the second would "violate" what he said was a principle "that all vacancies in elective offices should be filled by a vote of the people at the next general election."

Preference Is Opposed
The proposed veterans' civil service preference amendment, which Fitzpatrick supported, and which was approved by the Legislature without a dissenting vote, repeatedly has been opposed by civil service groups as being "discriminatory" and a danger to the merit system.

In New York yesterday, the State Charities Aid Association advocated defeat of the veterans' preference amendment on the ground that public health would "suffer."

Homers Folks, association secretary, said in a statement that "the quality of care given in public hospitals for tuberculosis, mental and other patients, and of work done by other public departments, would suffer seriously" if the amendment were approved.

"The proposed extension of preference to all veterans means that in every examination... better qualified candidates... would be passed over in favor of lower ranking candidates who happen to be veterans," Folks said.

The Association of State Civil Service Employees also opposed the amendment, issued a statement from the American Veterans Committee, an organization of World War 2 veterans, which said the proposal "specifically discriminates against war widows, the wives of war veterans... the children of veterans and civil service employees of demonstrated efficiency, among whom are many parents of veterans."

Central Hudson Common Stock Now on Exchange

Ernest R. Acker, president of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, announced today that the company's common stock has been formally listed on the New York Stock Exchange, and that the Exchange has ruled that the stock will be eligible for trading on November 5, 1945.

"The company has approximately 5,250 common stockholders," said Mr. Acker, "and the stock is widely held throughout the United States. The increase in number of stockholders, amounting to 40 per cent in the last four months, is largely the result of the sale in early September by Niagara Hudson Power Corporation of its holdings of nearly 30 per cent of the company stock."

The company has formally listed its common stock in order that stockholders may have the opportunity of buying or selling shares in the broadest available market and on an exchange whose quotations are nationally reported.

Mr. Acker stated that no action

It is understood that most of this stock is held locally in the territory served by the company and that transactions in the stock are relatively infrequent.
